Massachusetts Primaries Are

Crucial Test of President's Strength.

ORATORS INVADE STATE

With the Sints of Massachusetts invaded by the President and Col. Rooseveit, both of whom are to make political speeches there this wask. The national campaign for the Republican nomination for President will take on additional interest. Massachusetts will be a battle ground. It is to be the most important stringsie for delegatise with be accuse it will probably be decisive. Even President Tall's friends admit that if he losses in Massachusetts for an hardly hope to win the nomination. In addition to the two rival candidates, there will be many speakers in Massachusetts of national renown. Senators Borah, Clapp, Poindexter, and Cummins believes he will be able to secure the delegates-tiarge and a sufficient number of district delegates to give him a majority of the State convention is held there will be district delegates to give him a majority of the State convention is held there will be district delegates to give him. Fifth, Tenth, and Eleventh lows. It will be known before the week is over and probably as early as Wednesday and the second of the count on the majority of the Iowa delegates to his list from the Twelfth District of Indians, which holds its convention on Tuesday. At the primaries fistured by hearing every county in the district.

President Taft is not contemplating retirement from the race. His followers asy that he will adhere to the declaration in the made when he became finally convinced that Col. Roosevelt was ecceptly a candidate namely, that death alone could remove him from the fight.

Observe Triante standard.

The Saengerbund, Arion Geangeverein, columbia Turnverein, and Germania Maennerchor observed respect for the Triange disaster yesterday by omitting the concerts and other amusement programmes which had been scheduled for last night at their respective clubhouses.

State, with the President and a former President openly in the field canvasaing for delegates in opposition to each other. New Hampshire will express her choice to-morrow.

Both sides are making claims for that State. If President Taft should carry Massachusetta and New Hampshire, his followers would undoubtedly take fresh courage and would serve to strengthen his chances at what is believed to be a critical stage of the campaign.

The State of Rhode Island will hold its State convention and district conventions this weel. Ten delegates are to be selected. There appears to be little found in the summaling will be carried donnexly. The State convention and many selected. There appears to be little for the selected.
